

Ambassador Richard Verma
Former U.S. Ambassador to India

Ambassador Taranjit Singh Sandhu
Ambassador of India to the U.S.

Moderated by Ambassador Barbara Stephenson
Vice Provost for Global Affairs
at UNC-Chapel Hill

The Office of the Vice Provost for Global Affairs at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, in collaboration with UNC Modern Indian Studies, presents

U.S.-India Relations Under a Biden Administration

WED., APRIL 7, 2021 AT 6 P.M. EDT | VIRTUAL

In a panel discussion featuring Ambassador Taranjit Singh Sandhu and Ambassador Richard Verma, these distinguished diplomats will share their thoughts on how relations between the United States and India, two of the world's largest democracies, are likely to unfold under the Biden administration. Anusha Chari, director of the Modern Indian Studies initiative and professor of economics and finance at UNC-Chapel Hill, will provide opening remarks. Ambassador Barbara Stephenson, vice provost for global affairs at UNC-Chapel Hill, will moderate the discussion.

REGISTRATION REQUIRED: Global.unc.edu/US_India

This event is presented as part of Diplomatic Discussions, a series organized by the Office of the Vice Provost for Global Affairs, which brings diplomats and foreign relations experts to UNC-Chapel Hill to discuss important issues in diplomacy and international affairs.

This panel discussion is organized by the Office of the Vice Provost for Global Affairs and the Modern Indian Studies initiative at UNC-Chapel Hill. Campus partners include the following from the UNC-Chapel Hill College of Arts & Sciences: the Carolina Asia Center; Curriculum in Global Studies; Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense; Department of Asian and Middle Eastern Studies; Department of Political Science; Department of Public Policy; and UNC Philosophy, Politics and Economics Program.